Fiscal Systems Launches a Web Based Transaction and Reconciliation Service for Petroleum Retailers

MADISON, Alabama January 19, 2010- Fiscal Systems announced today the launch of Project Mercury, a Web Based Transaction and Reconciliation Service for petroleum retailers. Project Mercury is a real-time proprietary fleet card service that provides retailers a secure, accurate and convenient system to better manage their fleet transactions and reporting, with preauthorization and reconciliation features yet flexible enough to allow the use of the fleet cards at the dispenser and the Point of Sale. This new system offers significant cost saving opportunities by eliminating per transaction charges versus currently available programs. Retailers will see an immediate lift in their bottom line due to the elimination of these costly fees.

Currently available fleet card programs typically charge a license fee, a monthly fee, and per gallon transaction fee and with the ever increasing price of fuel, retailers are continually concerned with narrow margins and bad debt. "As a result, many retailers hesitate from offering this type of fleet card program for their customers," says Phil Moore, Fiscal System's President. However with a simple yet affordable system such as Project Mercury, many retailers have capitalized on the benefits of using Mercury's real-time, full service program to profitably grow their fleet card transaction volume.

To meet the growing needs of retailers, web-based systems such as the Fiscal Project Mercury provides retailer's easy access to services that cost effectively meet their needs and allow them the opportunity to cultivate customer and dealer relationships that will grow their business.
